ENGLAND'S DEFICIT.

YEAR HAD NOT BEEN PROSPEROUS

Still the Revenues Showed No Diminution in Business at Home and There Has Been Increase in Foreign Trade.

WAR THE CAUSE OF SHORTAGE

LONDON, April 15.—The chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, arose in the house of commons at 4:25 p. m. yesterday to make the budget statement. He declared the past year had not been exceptionally prosperous, but there was nothing to depress the country. Despite the fact that thousands of workmen had been removed from productive labor by the war, the revenue figures showed no diminution of business at home, while there was a satisfactory increase of foreign trade and there was no reason for thinking that there had been any falling off of the consuming power of the people.

There had been a heavy slump in the receipts from tobacco, spirits and beer, but there was a great increase in the consumption of tea and cocoa. The decrease in the receipts from spirits and tobacco was due to the forestatement to the duty during the previous year. He was in the exceptional position for a chancellor of the exchequer holding office during a severe war, that for two years past the revenue had exceeded his anticipations the last year by £543,000. He then announced that the total deficit would reach £45,000,000 ($225,000,000).

The financial statement shows a total ordinary expenditure for 1902-03, estimated at £129,109,000, with war charges amounting to £45,450,000, making a grand total of £174,609,000, which is £12,993 below the total for 1901-02.

To the deficit must be added sixteen to seventeen millions additional war expenditure.

The chancellor of the exchequer said he had hopes of a happy result from the conference in South Africa, but he had put them aside. Preparation for the continuance of the war was the best guarantee of peace.

The income tax is increased a penny in the pound sterling.

There is no increase in the duty on sugar.

The sinking fund is to be suspended.

The grand total of the deficit is £45,000,000.

The duties on wine, beer, tobacco and tea are not changed.

A penny tax is imposed on dividend warrants and two penny stamps must be placed on checks instead of one penny as heretofore.

A duty of five cents per hundred weight is imposed on flour.

The sum of £32,000,000 will be borrowed.

The duty on meat is five pence per hundred weight.

The revenue from the new taxation is expected to be £5,160,000. After borrowing £32,000,000 the chancellor of the exchequer will make up the deficit by drafts on the exchequer.

War was a costly thing to wage and a costly thing to terminate, said the chancellor. After the war was over there would be the great expense of the relief and resettlement of the two colonies and the restocking of farms. He hoped that when durable peace was made, parliament would be generous and loan money for restocking the farms, not only of those who fought on the British side, but of those who had been honest enemies and whom they now hoped to make friends, and for railroad and other enterprises to serve to develop the two states. It was his duty not take a rosy view of the case, but to provide for the worst. He had hopes of a happy result from the conference in South Africa, but he had put them aside. Preparations for the continuance of the war were the best guarantee of peace.

The chancellor of the exchequer denied that the registration of duties on wheat and flour violated the principles of free trade, or would increase the cost of food. He thought the duties had been recklessly abandoned and declared their remission did not reduce the price of food.

—The Evangelical congregation at Lewistown held a special service Sunday morning at which they burned a note of $800 which had been standing against their property for years.

OPENING OF TROUT SEASON.

Fishermen Anticipating Much Sport and Good Catches in Mountain Streams.

The trout season opened Tuesday and as the new law is now in effect the lovers of this sport will have fifteen days longer than last year. The last day of the coming season will be August 1st, instead of July 15th, as heretofore, and from all reports it is going to be an exceptionally good one. Fish are said to be plentiful, and all streams—large and small—are expected to yield large catches.

Open and warm spring weather before the season lawfully begins is always hard on the trout. In the mountain districts poachers fish according to the weather and not in keeping with the game laws of the state. So far this year there has not been much opportunity to fish in the mountain districts. With the exception of three or four days in March the weather has been severe since the first of the year.

The statutes of the state provide that one who goes hunting or fishing on Sunday is subject to a fine of $25 with no reduction on account of poor luck. There is likewise a fine of $20 for "catching, killing, or having in possession after dead," any trout less than six inches long, and for taking trout from a stream that has been stocked by the fish commissioners within three years, provided notice of stocking has been given in the newspapers. The old law placed the limit on trout at five inches.

Thousands of young trout are placed in the mountain streams in this section every year by the state. Trout fishermen have been busy for a week past putting their outfit in order in anticipation of the opening day of the season and daylight Tuesday found the banks of the trout streams lined with anxious anglers.

Late Spring Delays Farm Work.

While the backwardness of the present spring is considered a good thing for the fruit, as the cool weather retards the development of the buds, the farmers today complained that the starting of the spring work has been delayed so long that they will be behindhand with their farming all season. The season is already two weeks later than last spring.

The past winter has been exceptionally hard on farm lands owing to heavy rains. One farmer states that one farm of his has been washed three times so badly that the best soil has been carried away. A small stream runs through the piece of land and this became so swollen at different times that it over swept some of the best portions of it and deposited many loads of stone thereon. A large apple tree fell over the other day after its roots locsened, on account of the ground having been washed away from it.

The wheat is promising. The lack of snow in the early part of the winter, and the alternating washes and freezes later in the season gave rise to fears that the wheat would be very light. Several farmers, today, however stated that these fears have proven groundless, as the wheat is in better condition than they expected.

Electrocuted at Telephone.

By a shock of electricity from a telephone Thomas F. Delahunt, a florist of Chester, was almost instantly killed Wednesday evening of last week. Delahunt's attention was attracted by a peculiar noise at the telephone, and, going to the transmitter, pulled it down with both hands. He received a tremendous shock and fell into the arms of William Dempster and Horace Lynch. Before a physician arrived he had died. He was a widower, 36 years of age, and leaves one child.

The Feast of the Passover.

The feast of the Passover or "Pasach" will commence on Monday evening, April 21st, or according to the Jewish calender on the 14th day of Nisan. This holiday is in commemoration of the exodus of the Jews from Egypt under the leadership of Moses and the attainment of their liberty after their 430 years of slavery. Unleavened bread or "Matzes" is eaten for a period of eight days.

Whistling is Beneficial.

As a good method of prolonging life and strengthening the human frame against sickness, whistling is said to be beyond compare. Development of chest and neck muscles is one of the special advantages claimed for the exercise. Long, deep breathing is an essential for a good whistler, as it is not permissible to draw in the breath except during the intervals of the sound production.

MILES TO BE RETIRED

Issues Are Joined Between Himself and Secretary Root.

NO DENIAL AT THE WHITE HOUSE

A Close Friend of the President Says Root Has the Heaviest Load on His Shoulders of Any Member of the Administration.

THE GENERAL ADDING THERETO

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The issues are fairly joined between the lieutenant general and the secretary of war. The troubles which began long ago under the Cleveland administration have finally reached so critical a stage that the compulsory retirement of General Miles at an early date is an open secret and is not denied at the white house. In explanation of President Roosevelt's position one of his close friends, who unquestionably speaks by authority, says:

"The question is not a personal one between General Miles and Secretary Root. At present Secretary Root has on his shoulders a heavier burden than any other member of the administration. No man less strong could carry it all; and now, at the very time when he requires the most loyal support of every subordinate who wishes well to the army and the navy, he has to spend much of his strength in meeting the opposition of the commanding general. If General Miles is retired it will be simply because after patient trial, President Roosevelt feels that on the highest ethical grounds his retention would work grave and lasting injustice to the army as a whole. As some of General Miles's friends have said that it would be unfair to retire him, it should be said in the first place that he secured his promotion to a brigadier generalship only through the similar enforced retirement of General Ord, he himself having been jumped over a number of senior officers into the vacancy thus created; and, in the second place, that the only action of the kind taken by President Roosevelt since he has been in office was in the case of General Noyes, who was compulsorily retired after reaching the age of 62, on the recommendation of General Miles. In other words the general has himself recommended and profited by the very action which his friends now fear may be taken at his expense. If he should go out before General Brooke, General Brooke, who is General Miles' senior both in service and in age and who did gallant and distinguished work as a volunteer in the civil war, would undoubtedly be put in his place as lieutenant general, as it is known that the administration has been very desirous of reconizging General Brooke's long and faithful service. General Brooke during the civil war rendered equally meritorious service with General Miles; General Brooke was the first to obtain a commission and throughout the civil war he retained his advantage, ending the war as General Miles's senior. After peace came General Miles was promoted over General Brooke's head. As General Brooke will necessarily hold the position but a brief period before his retirement for age General Young is likely to succeed General Brooke, with General Chaffee's promotion to follow two years hence."

Gave Life for Her Boys.

Mrs. Margaret Brady, of Hillside, Clearfield county, met a horrible death near Glen Campbell Wednesday of last week while attempting to save the life of her two boys.

The woman and her two children were walking along the railroad track to join the husband and father, who works in the mines near Glenn Campbell. When near Glenn Campbell Junction a freight train suddenly emerged from a deep cut at a rapid rate. Before the little party was aware of the danger the train was upon them.

The mother, in her frantic efforts to save her boys from death, virtually threw herself in front of the engine. Her body was literally torn to shreds. The boys were thrown to the side of the track and so seriously injured that their recovery is doubtful. One had both arms cut off and the other was frightfully cut and bruised.

—"Dat bird am lak som fool men," said Charcoal Eph, as he pulled a plump hen from the coop, "Dey jes' will 'keep perchin' on the lowes' roos' to tempt providence."

APPOINTED TO WEST POINT.

James G. Taylor, a Bellefonte Boy, Receives This High Honor.

Friday Captain Hugh S. Taylor received word from Congressman J. K. P. Hall at Washington, D. C., that his brother, James G. Taylor, had been appointed by President Roosevelt to a cadetship at West Point, Uncle Sam's famous military school, from this Congressional district. The appointment was made on the recommendation of Hon. J. K. P. Hall, our Representative in Congress.

James G. Taylor was born in Bellefonte and is the son of the late Hugh Taylor. He is eighteen years of age and a youth of unusual brightness and ability. He is also an all-round athlete and one of the best drilled soldiers in Co. B, 5th Regiment, N. G. P.

Under the late ruling of the War Department a cadet is appointed a year ahead of the time for entering the school so that Taylor will not begin his term at West Point until June, 1903. He will graduate from the Bellefonte High school this coming June and the certificate he receives in graduating entitles him to enter West Point without further examination.

The Price of Beef Advancing.

The trust has cornered all the cattle it has been able to lay its hand on in Pennsylvania, and this, coupled with the fact that only 150,000 cattle are being raised in the state annually instead of the 500,000 of a few years ago, has sent the prices of Pennsylvania cattle soaring. The few shipments arriving are being snapped up, but there is not half enough live stock to supply the demand. As a result of these conditions the price of beef on the hoof rose 35 cents a hundred pounds Thursday.

This increase makes the butchers pay a half cent more for beef than they did on Thursday. In many places meat to the consumer has again been advanced two cents a pound.

Girls Win A Novel Wager.

Two young women who gave their names as Louise Gans and Grace Fosland and who say they made a wager some time ago that they could make their way from Chicago to San Francisco on a capital of forty-five cents, have arrived at San Francisco. They assert they made the journey from Chicago without serious inconvenience and did very little walking. They did no begging, they say, but accepted whatever was offered them en route.

The worst of their experiences came in beating their way on railroad trains from Ogden to San Francisco. From Aurora, Ill., to Chicago they say they were, four days without food.

$65,000 Y. M. C. A. Building.

The D. L. & W. R. R. has given a site worth $30,000 and $10,000 in cash, to which the citizens have added $25,000 more, for the building of a railroad Y. M. C. A. building in Scranton, Pa. Plans for the structure were adopted Wednesday last.

Besides this, Scranton has just finished a most magnificent Y. M. C. A. building in the centre of the city, one of the finest in the state.

All of which reminds us that Bellefonte is in need of a handsome Y. M. C. A. building, one that would be a credit to the town. Will not some man of means come to our rescue?

Base Ball.

A very interesting game of base ball took place Thursday afternoon at 4.20 between the Midway vs. Stone school. The stone school boys won the game at a score of 24 to 3. The line up was follows:

F. Smith	catcher	L. Struble
H. Waite	pitcher	M. McGarvey
H. Stewart	first base	L. McClure
L. Barnhart	second base	C. Barnes
W. Thompson	third base	S. Rumberger

A Record-Breaking Run.

Buffalo Express, east, made a record-breaking run between Sunbury and Harrisburg, Wednesday afternoon. The distance, fifty-four miles, was covered in fifty-six minutes, with several slow ups in the different yards. Sixteen minutes lost time was made up between the two points. The engine was No. 1052, one of the new ones recently sent to Sunbury from Altoona, with Engineer Bob Carnihan Conductor C. J. Hoffman and Flagman J. Treadwell.

THAT BEEF TRUST.

A Letter from Attorney General Knox Made Public Tuesday.

AN INVESTIGATION IN PROGRESS

But It is Believed that in the Interests of the Public Good the Methods Being Persued Should Not Be Made Known.

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A letter from Attorney General Knox relative to the so-called beef trust was made public Tuesday by Representative Ray, of New York, chairman of the house committee on judiciary. In view of the attorney general's letter, the judiciary committee decided without division to recommend that the resolution of Representative Thayer, of Massachusetts, asking the attorney general what steps he had taken against the beef trust, lie on the table. The attorney general's letter is given in Mr. Ray's report on the resolution.

The report quotes Mr. Rays letter, dated April 12, to the attorneys general, in which the following questions are asked:

"1—Has your attention been called to the matter alleged in house resolution 203, a copy of which is annexed?

"2—Have you been requested to take any officials action in the matter?

"3—Have you any evidence of the existence of such a combination?"

The attorney general, in a letter of the same date, answers the questions as follows:

"1—It has not, except so far as it is a matter of general notoriety.

"2—I have not.

"3—None that could be classed as legal evidence."

Continuing, the letter says:

"It is proper, I think, however, to add that owing to the positive oft-repeated and circumstantial nature of the allegations, that the law is being flagrantly violated, I directed some time ago a thorough investigation to be made by one of the district attorneys of the United States for the purpose of ascertaining whether in fact such combination existed and whether, if so, its operation were in violation of any federal statute."

Continuing, the report says:

"It is apparent from this correspondence that there is no necessity for the adoption of the resolution. By reason of the wide spread notoriety of the matter, the attorney general of the United States has already ordered a thorough investigation. There is no doubt he will perform his duty and prosecute all offenders if offenders there be.

"It is evident that he should not be required to give in detail the steps already taken as this would be to forewarn those who are violating the law and enable them to conceal evidence.

"It is also evident that this officer cannot state whether or not there has been an infringement of the law as no evidence has been presented to him upon which to base an opinion and no intelligent opinion can be given as to whether or not there has been an infringement of the law until the facts are fully ascertained.

"It is also evident that no legal steps can be taken toward a prosecution of the parties violating the law until a thorough investigation has been made. In short, the letter of the attorney general above quoted, answers the resolution as fully as it can be or ought to be at this time."

Seriously Burned.

Bertha M., wife of George O. Sherman, was fatally burned Tuesday afternoon at her home in Lewistown.

She was burning rubbish in her yard when her clothes became ignited, and being unable to put them out by her own efforts ran into the street, where several men saw her and came to her rescue. The flames were mounting as high as her head and when they had been quenched her clothes were burned from her body. Her entire body is horribly burned and she is not expected to recover. She is about 25 years old.

Presented to Gregg Post, No. 95.

On Saturday evening at the regular meeting of the Post Congressman J. K. P. Hall presented, through Captain Hugh S. Taylor, a history of the dedication of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Parks and atlases of fourteen battle fields. They certainly will be very much appreciated by Gregg Post, for it calls them back to the days when they stood on these grounds and fought for their flag and country.

Fisherman's Luck.

The opening of the Trout fishing season in this vicinity was not a very auspicious one and although the creeks were lined with the disiples of Izaak Walton yet few big catches are reported. The cold weather and the muddy condition of the water are given as the reasons for the scarcity of fish in the sportsmen's basket.

The following catches however are reported: John Bower 4, Ollie Campbell 34, Ben Tate 26, Walter Garrity 25, Russell Blair and Frank P. Blair, together 56, George Meek 6, John McGinley 6, Mitchell Cunningham 18, Temp Cruse 10, Kline Woodring 6, Isaac and Arthur Thomas 12 (one 14½ inches long), Charles Heisler 43 Edmund Blanchard 6.

—William Durbin Couch, a well known real estate and insurance man of Altoona, died at his home in that city Saturday afternoon. He was aged 56 years and 7 months. He was born in Huntingdon, but had lived in Altoona since the year 1851. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

—The fifth annual meeting of the P. and E. Veterans' association will be held at Williamsport this afternoon at 3 o'clock. A banquet will be served at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Badges of mourning will be worn by all the employes out of respect to the memory of the late president of the association, E. B. Westfall.

—A man by the name of H. Berry of Syracuse, New York, was found in an unconcious condition on Saturday afternoon near the puddling mill at Howard. He remained in that condition until this morning. He don't remember anything of the past. How he became in Monday condition is unknow although he is believed to be suffering from the effects of a fit of some kind.

—The postoffice department has under consideration the question of placing on one of the postage stamps of the new issue the head of some woman who is connected with the history of the country. No particular person has been decided upon, although there is no doubt that Martha Washington will be the woman so honored. This will be the first recognition of women upon any of the Government securities issued by that department.

—Ex-Senator Buckalew, of Pennsylvania, relates that he once heard the famous Governor Ritner calling over the roll of Prothonotaries by counties in alphabetical order. "Zentre gounty?" replied the Governor, "vy, vay doun at the ent of de list of gourse mit de zets."—Philadelphia Times.

—John Curma, a foreigner in the employ of the Basic Brick company, at Johnstown, was arrested Saturday morning on a warrant charging him with cruelty to animals. The information was made by Humane Agent Wilt on information received, and charged Curma with beating a horse over the head and nose with a brick until the nose bled. Curma pleaded guilty and paid $10 fine and costs.

—Weather prophets who have been able to catch a glimpse of the new moon say the points are turned upward, and will catch the rain drops, consequently another spell of wet weather may be expected. The February and March moons, the prophets say, were both "wet moons," and as the moon predictions were fulfilled the April moon has started in to verify its indications. Now there you are! No charge for the information.

—The Pittsburg Times tells of a Sharon woman, Mrs. Samuel Coxson, going into a butcher's shop during his temporary absence. When he returned the woman said: "I might have walked off with a quarter of beef while you were out." The butcher replied: "Well, if you can carry one home, you are welcome to it." At this Mrs. Coxson walked across the shop, lifted a quarter from the hook, shouldered it, and carried it three squares to her home. The butcher looked on in astonishment but said nothing. The meat weighed 116 pounds and the woman 110.

Big Timber Deal.

A dispatch from Coudersport says the Goodyear Lumber company has purchased 14,000 acres of hemlock timber from Payne, Cochran & Co., of Williamsport, paying $500,000. The tract is on the east fork of the Sinnemahoning creek, in Potter county. The timber will be sawed at Galeton and Austin.

PET DOG WASHERS.

The Queer Trade That Flourishes In the French Capital.

As you walk along certain parts of Paris your attention is sometimes attracted by the barking of a dog, and on such an occasion one of the queerest of the outdoor trades of Paris is seen. Near the water's edge, his black coat flecked thickly with soapsuds, stands the dog, and over him, energetically shampooing the soap into the long, hairy coat, stands one of the professional dog washers who haunt the banks of the Seine at stated spots from the Pont d'Iena to the Pont Neuf. These men lather and wash pet dogs while their owners look on from conveniently placed chairs. The fees range from 5 sous to a franc. When the soaping operation is completed, the dog is dropped into the river and encouraged to get rid of the dirt and soap by a swim.

Sometimes the pet will swim straight out, while the fair owner is in agonies of fear lest some swiftly passing steamer should strike it and end its bathing and swimming days forever. On more than one occasion the dog washer has been driven to plunge in and rescue the bewildered animal lest the infuriated owner should claim compensation for his carelessness. With some Parisiennes this weekly pet washing is a ceremony of importance. The dainty lady, alighting from her smart victoria, goes down the steps to the washing place chosen, preceded by her footman carrying or leading the dog, as the case may be, and then, seated under a sunshade, she directs the toilet of Fifi or Nero with tender solicitude. The toilet des chiens at the fashionable spots includes warm, fleecy towels, a peignoir de bain while the dog's hair is being curled, combed, singed or cut, and a length of ribbon of a selected color to tie round its neck at the finish.

A fee of 5 francs cannot be considered excessive for a "toilet" including a clipping during which Fifi or Nero is held firmly by the lady proprietress of the etablissement des bains, while her assistant uses the patent shears. When all has been completed, the victim, wagging his tail with conscious pride, proceeds to the carriage with his proud and happy mistress and drives away in state, yelping at dogs less aristocratic than he.—Wide World Magazine.

Postoffices and Addresses.

One of the rules of the postoffice department which often provokes dissatisfaction is that which prohibits a postmaster or any member of his family from giving out the addresses of patrons of the office. A person may be looking for some one whose address has been lost or misplaced. What is more natural than to go to the postoffice and ask for the information? But the postmaster, if he obeys the regulations, will not give it. The government acts on the theory that it is not its business to disclose the whereabouts of the patrons of the postoffice. Debtors may be pursued by importunate creditors; young women may be subjected to unpleasant attentions; hundreds of people for various reasons, good and bad, may desire to conceal from somebody their place of residence. It is not the business of the government to expose them to annoyance.—Youth's Companion.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Heavy pruning of growing trees will check growth.

Flowering plants should never be watered with cold water. It chills the plants.

Repotting of plants becomes necessary at intervals for two reasons. The plant uses up the available fertility in the soil and fills the pots with roots.

The ink plant of New Granada is a curiosity. The juice of it can be used as ink without any preparation. At first the writing is red, but after a few hours it changes to black.

In watering the primrose observe this: Water should not be poured upon the crown of the plant nor the pot filled so full that the water flows over into it. This is fatal to the health of the plant.

To destroy aphides or plant lice dip the ends of the twigs into a strong tea made by steeping tobacco stems in hot water or syringe with whale oil soapsuds, repeating the operation in six or seven days.

First Justice to Wear Gown.

"Few people, I venture to say, even in high official positions, know what justice first wore the gown in the supreme court of the United States," said an authority on the subject recently. "When Justice John Jay took the office, he thought the members of the supreme bench should wear a gown of some sort. Accordingly he appeared in his own academic gown, which he wore by virtue of having received a degree from the University of Dublin, or, as it was then known, 'Trinity college.' It was a tricolored gown too. Such a garment would look peculiar now, since the black gown has been adopted."—Washington Post.

The Wrong Way.

Fathers and mothers who do not know how and where their sons and especially their young daughters spend their evenings are guilty of a negligence that is little short of criminal and that, too, often leads to sad consequences. The American habit of letting the young folks "have their own way" in choosing their associates and methods of recreation is responsible in every city for a good deal of evil that might be prevented by parental firmness judiciously exercised.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PRESENTED THE SWORD

GIVEN BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

The Major Was Made This Present Because of His Gallant Service as a Rough Rider in the Campaign in Cuba.

'TWAS A GREAT DAY IN CHARLESTON

CHARLESTON, S. C, Apr 10.-Wednesday was President Day at the Exposition. The events of the day began with a grand procession through the principal streets of Charleston, and afterward there were speeches in the Exposition auditorium, the presentation of a sabre by the president to Major Micah Jenkins, a luncheon at the woman's building, and inspection of grounds and buildings. The parade was the most impressive that Charleston has ever seen. Beside the president and distinguished visitors, United states artillery men; United States marines and jackies, there were soldiers from various states and cadets from two military academies.

The procession moved from the St. John hotel at 10 o'clock and proceeded up Meeting street to Calhoun, through Calhoun to Rutledge avenue, thence northward to Grove street and to the Exposition gates. The march was continued through the Grove street gate and then around the court of palaces.

The presidential party was driven directly to the exposition auditorium, where the president reviewed the troops from a platform erected at that point. The president's salute of twenty-one guns was fired by the German artillery on the entrance of the president into the exposition grounds.

At noon the president proceeded from the reviewing stand into the auditorium, where the formal ceremonies were held. Addresses were made by Captain F. W. Wagner, president of the South Carolina Interstate and West Indies Exposition company; Governor McSweeney, of South Carolina; Governor Aycock, of North Carolina; Mayor Smith, of Charleston, and the president of the United States.

Immediately after the addresses a handsome sword was presented to Major Micah Jenkins, the presentation being made by President Roosevelt. The sword was handed to the president by ex-Governor Hugh S. Thompson.

With the conclusion of the exercises in the auditorium the presidential party was escorted to the West Indian building; from there they went to the South Carolina building and made a tour of the great buildings in the court of palaces. Guard duty during the time of the president's visit was done entirely by the men of the United States marine corps, from Camp Hayward, under Captain Leonard United States navy.

At 2 o'clock the president and party were taken to the woman's building where a luncheon was served by the woman's board.

It was after the president's address that ex-Governor Thompson handed him for presentation to Major Jenkins the handsome sabre, the gift of the people of South Carolina, intended as a tribute to the major's gallant services with the Rough Riders, as well as a rebuke to Lieutenant Governor Tillman for his withdrawal of an invitation to the president to present a sword previously bought through private subscriptions. That sword still reposed in a bank vault in Columbia, S. C., Major Jenkins having refused to accept it after Lieutenant Governor Tillman's action. The blade presented yesterday is an exquisite imported one, inlaid in gold. The hilt is surmounted by a magnificent sapphire, surrounded by twenty diamonds. The scabbard is of heavy nickel steel with gold trimmings, and upon it on each side finely engraved are appropriate inscriptions.

Handing the sword to Major Jenkins the president said:

Major Jenkins, nothing could give me greater pleasure than to hand you, my old friend and comrade, whose courage I saw again and again, and whose courage was of a temper that made it indifferent what the trial was, to hand you this sabre. I am glad to do it, as a guest of South Carolina, as the president of the United States, but gladder to do it as your old friend and comrade.

In accepting the sword Major Jenkins said:

Mr. President: In the Spanish-American war I had the honor of being the only representative from South Carolina in that peerless volunteer regiment, "The Rough Riders."

In accepting this sword, sir I wish to express to my fellow statesmen, through you, my deep appreciation of the high honor they have this day conferred upon me, and to assure them that this sword from now on, whether in my hand, or that of my son's son, will be consecrated to the common service of South Carolina and the United States for thank God, that service in the event of war, is evermore the same. I have fought with the sons of Hood and Wheeler, with the men in blue and again I say I thank God for our re-united country. The greatest most magnificent, best beloved country on the face of God's green earth—the home of the free, the land of the brave—the United States.

The Great Dismal Swamp

Of Virginia is a breeding ground of malaria germs. So is low, wet or marshy grounds everywhere. These germs cause weakness, chills and fever, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce dangerous maladies. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malarial troubles. They will surely prevent typhoid. "We tried many remedies for malaria and stomach and liver troubles," writes John Charleston, of Byesville, O., "but never found anything as good as Electric Bitters." Try them. Only 50c. Green's Pharmacy guarantees satisfaction.

A Generous Gift.

Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the president of the United States Steel Corporation, has sent her check to Miss Clara Valentine, of this place, for $100, the same to be applied to the payment of the debt on Petrikin Hall. The check was sent at the solicitation of Miss Clara Valentine, who wrote to Mrs. Schwab at Atlantic City, stating the history of Petrikin Hall and the great power for good it would exercise in this community, and soliciting a contribution.

Mrs. Schwab's answer to this appeal was prompt and to the point and reached Miss Valentine Wednesday. It was a most generous action on the part of the donor and one that deserves the highest appreciation and thanks from the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the people of Bellefonte in general

Extension of Eagle's Mere Road.

The Eagle's Mere railroad is to be extended five miles north of the lake into a tract of timber owned and to be cut by the Union Tanning company. That company is also preparing to build a large sawmill upon the Schrader tract, in Bradford county. The product of this will be shipped over the Barclay railroad and thence over the Lehigh Valley.

Smallpox at Union Furnace.

A case of smallpox has developed a Union Furnace. It is in Morris township, Huntingdon county, close to the line between Blair and Huntingdon counties. The house is a plastered one on the outside, and used as a boarding house. Nearly a dozen people are said to lodge there.

Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh, of Huntingdon, deputy inspector of the State board of health, has taken the matter in hand. A case of the loathsome disease has also developed at Cold Spring Forge. Ross Wilson, a carpenter by trade, who with his family lives in one of the tenement houses there, is the victim. It is said he contracted the disease by going down to Pemberton, but as to the truth of the statement we are not informed.

The case was reported to Health Officer Wands Wednesday noon and he promptly went to the place and put a guard on the Wilson house, so it is now under strict quarantine.—Tyrone Herald.

Fire at Herndon.

SUNBURY, April 11.—The plant of the Hernod Shirt Manufacturing company, of Herndon, a town a few miles below this city, was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. About 500 dozen shirts and materials were burned. The building is believed to have been set on fire. The loss is placed at $20,000 covered by $15,000 insurance. There was $5,000 insurance on the building but this policy lapsed Wednesday.

—Dr. H. N. Laird died suddenly at Muncy Wednesday night of neuralgia of the heart, aged 51 years.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Stomachs on Stilts.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature by the breadth of a hair. He feels taller while he's on the stilts, and when he's off them he feels shorter than he ever felt. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward.

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It cures the diseases of the digestive and nutritive system which make the stomach "weak." It enables the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the body receives the nutrition on which depends its strength.

"I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carnes, Esq., Taylorstown, Loudoun Co., Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat most anything now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote to you. A gentleman told me of your medicine, and how it cured his wife. Thought I would try a bottle of it. Am now glad that I did, for I do not know what I should have done had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

The sluggish liver is made active by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

MANY IMMIGRANTS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Carrying More Than Ever This Year.

A Pennsylvania Railroad passenger man is authority for the statement that more immigrants have come into the country this spring than during the same months for the past four years.

The Pennsylvania has hauled as many as 600 west on one train, most of them traveling on the second section of Pacific Express in the morning. On account of the large number of packages carried by these people, not more than 40, or at the most 45, can be crowded into one car. None but the oldest coaches are used for this purpose.

Within the past month it is estimated that the Pennsylvania has hauled west 5,000 foreigners of all nations. Most of them are bound for the farming regions of the Northwest, and not a few for the western section of Oregon. The rush of men from those districts to the city and the steady growth of the farming industry there have opened up many paying positions to strangers.

Many of the people coming to the United States are Finlanders. They are fleeing from their native land on account of the persecutions of the Russian government, and it is said, make excellent citizens, taking advantge of all the privileges this free country affords them.

A Ruffian Tramp.

Monday's Lock Haven Democrat says: Saturday evening great excitement was caused in Flemington by a half drunken tramp. He entered the house of Joseph Long and offered an appliance for a lamp for sale. Mrs. Long in trying one on the lamp broke it. This enraged the tramp who roughly grabbing Mrs. Long demanded that she would have to pay for the broken one and also for another one that was in his hand. Mr. Long on being summoned from the store threw the tramp down. A hard struggle ensued, during which both men fell out of the door on to the sidewalk. Mr. Long, although up in years, managed to get the better of the tough and made him promise that he would behave himself. Mr. Long then allowed the tramp to get up. The tramp proceeded up street, making all sorts of threats against Mr. Long. He became so loudmouthed and abusive, that Burgess Stewart finally arrested him. He was brought to jail, in this city, by Constable Myers.

Beware of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

The new water tank at Beech Creek is much larger than the old one, it having a capacity of 54,000 gallons. It will be filled with water from Beech Creek, which will be conveyed to the tank through a six inch pipe about 400 feet long.

AN ODD WILL

MADE ARCHBISHOP RYAN TRUSTEE

Estate is Valued at Upward of $2,000,000 and the Bulk Is to Go to the Catholic Church and a Charitable Institution.

A CONTEST LIKELY TO BE MADE

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—By the terms of the will of Colonel John McKee, said to be the wealthiest negro in the country, who died a few days ago, Archbishop Ryan, of the archdiocese of Philadelphia, will come into the possession as trustee of an estate valued upward of $2,000,000. Colonel McKee owned nearly 400 pieces of real estate in Philadelphia, 4,500 acres of farm land in New Jersey and 2,000 acres of coal, mineral, oil and farm land in Kentucky, West Virginia and Illinois. He is survived by one daughter, Abbie A. Syphax, who has five children living, and by Harry McKee Minton, who is the son of a second daughter. This daughter is dead. The surviving daughter is cut off with an annuity of $300, and after her death her surviving children shall receive annuities of $50 each. Harry Minton is bequeathed an annuity of $50; and after the death of all the annuitants the annuities shall revert to the residuary estate in the hands of the archbishop

Colonel McKee, in his will, specified that his residuary estate shall be used for two purposes:

First, to build a Catholic church, rectory and convent in McKee City, N. J. and second, to build and maintain a charitable institution in Philadelphia for the education of both white and colored male orphans. The institution shall be located in the southern part of the city and shall be known as "McKee college." It shall be under the control of a board of directors elected by a vote of the Catholic clergy of Philadelphia. Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Spanish and French shall be taught in the college, and the education of the beneficiaries of his will shall conform as nearly as possible to that of the Annapolis naval academy. The executors are directed to negotiate with the secretary of the navy for the use of a battleship or cruiser on which advanced pupils may be given their final training.

Colonel McKee was buried yesterday, the funeral services of the Presbyterian church, of which he was a member up to the time of his death, being held over the remains. The will was opened and read after the funeral and caused much astonishment among the relatives and friends. The witness provided that he be given a Catholic burial and gave directions regarding the services, the coffin, number of carriages to be used, etc. Some of the relatives are considering the advisability of contesting the will. The relations between McKee and his relatives have always been pleasant. The will does not intimate anything relative to a change in his religious belief.

Two sisters of charity were sent to nurse Colonel McKee during a siege of typhoid fever which he suffered in 1896.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kinds of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in cases of piles, cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." C. M. Parrish.

The Bellefonters.

A musical extravaganza written and arranged by R. Wade Davis especially for Bellefonte will be produced in Garman's opera house, Friday and Saturday May 16 and 17. Over 300 of Bellefonte's best talent will take part.

Mr. Charles H. Geesey arrived Friday and will start rehearsals in a day or so. Mr. Geesey is the man who produced the Lock Havenites at Lock Haven in September which many of our people had the pleasure of witnessing.

Wedding at Blanchard.

The home of Mr. Robert Beaty, at Blanchard, was the scene of a pretty wedding Last Wednesday when his daughter, Miss Tillie Irene, was united in marriage, to Mr. Clyde W. Kunes, of Blanchard. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. George S West, pastor of the Baptist church in that place. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and an elegant supper was served to the many guests.

Catarrh and Colds Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes.

One short puff of the breath through the blower supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use. It relieves instantly and permanently cures catarrh, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsilitis and deafness. 50 cents.—21

Sabbath School Convention.

The Centre County Sabbath School Association held its annual convention in the Reformed church at Centre Hall, Tuesday.

Owing to the very inclement state of the weather but few delegates were in attendance. The sessions were very interesting and instructive. The program, with few exceptions, was carried out as arranged.

The general features of the program were suggested by Mr. Hugh Cork, of Pittsburg, field secretary of the State Association. It was unique and of a most practical character. It was very much to be deplored that more could not be present to catch the inspiration of the valuable suggestions thrown out. However, Providence, arranged the weather and all should trust the matter to His hands.

Mr. Cork delivered a most instructive address at the evening session on "Planning and Teaching for Definite Results."

President—Rev. J. M. Rearick, Centre Hall.

Vice President—Rev. J. D. Shortess, Millheim.

Recording Secretary—Miss Anne Hamilton, State College.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. A. A. Black, Boalsburg.

Treasurer—A. Lukenbach, Bellefonte.

Primary Superintendent—Miss Elizabeth B. Thompson, Lemont.

Home Department Sup't—Rev. D. E. Hepler, Lemont.

A Nearly Fatal Runaway

Started a horrible ulcer on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill., which defied doctors and all remedies for four years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Just as good for boils, burns, bruises, cuts, corns, scalds, skin eruptions and piles. 25c at Green's Pharmacy.

Death of Dr. A. Harshberger.

Dr. A. Harshberger, a brother of H. H. Harshberger Esq., of this place, died suddenly at his home in Philadelphia, April 10, 1902. Dr. Harshberger was a native of Centre county having been brought up at Zion. He was 62 years of age and was a veteran of the civil war, having first enlisted in the 4th Pennsylvania Volunteers for the three months service and afterward in the 3rd Pennsylvania heavy artillery and served throughout the war.

He is survived by a wife and two children, John A., a professor of Botany and Geology in the University of Pennsylvania and Marie, a teacher in the Girls High School at Philadelphia.

The funeral took place in Philadelphia Monday April 14, 1902.

Presbytery to Meet at Centre Hall

The Huntington Presbytery will hold its next session at Centre Hall the first Monday in October. This was pursuant to an invitation which Rev. Dr. Schuyler pastor of the Presbyterian church at Centre Hall, extended to the Presbytery during its recent session at Everette, Pa.

The body consists of about one hundred and twenty ministers and elders, and the sessions continue for three days.

—The DAILY NEWS may well congratulate itself on its Conference daily. But we go you one better, and also congratulate you on your very successful effort.—Centre Democrat.

The Funeral of Robert McCalmont.

The funeral of the late Robert McCalmont occurred Thursday morning from his home on North Thomas street. The services took place at 9:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. William Laurie, D. D., LL. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church.

There was a large attendance of sorrowing friends and relatives and many beautiful floral tributes reposed upon the casket.

The pall-bearers were all employes of McCalmont & Co. They were Messrs. Frank Frain, Willard Barnhart, Isaac Underwood, Charles Thomas, Rush Irwin and Conrad Miller.

The interment took place at Jacksonville.

A Doctor's Bad Plight.

"Two years ago, as a result of a severe cold, I lost my voice," writes Dr. M. L. Scarbrough, of Hebron, Ohio, "then began an obstinate cough. Every remedy known to me as a practicing physician for 35 years, failed, and I daily grew worse. Being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, coughs and colds, I found quick relief and for last ten days have felt better than for two years." Positively guaranteed for throat and lung troubles by Green's Pharmacy. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free Face Between Pitchfork Prongs.

George Edler, a Ross Valley Lycoming county, farmer, Monday narrowly missed being the slayer of his 8 year old daughter, Amy, who, while playing hide and seek, had gone into the hay loft, where she drew a thin layer of hay over herself, and while waiting to be found, fell asleep. When Farmer Edler went into the loft to throw down hay he jabbed his double pronged pitchfork into the hay which covered his child. The first I knew of her presence," he said, "was when I heard a scream. Upon lifting the fork I saw the face of my child between the prongs. They made a tight-fitting yoke for her." Her cheeks were scratched.

Bird-Shot For Tiger.

No use to hunt tigers with bird-shot. It doesn't hurt the tiger any and it's awfully risky for you.

Consumption is a tiger among diseases. It is stealthy—but once started it rapidly eats up the flesh and destroys the life. No use to go hunting it with ordinary food and medicine. That's only bird-shot. It still advances. Good heavy charges of Scott's Emulsion will stop the advance. The disease feels that.

Scott's Emulsion makes the body strong to resist. It soothes and toughens the lungs and sustains the strength until the disease wears itself out.

THE PASSING OF ELKIN.

The BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN has steadily and earnestly urged upon the people the inadvisability of nominating or trying to elect John P. Elkin to the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. The Republican had no candidate and was willing to accept any reputable and competent member of the Republican party and there are plenty of them throughout the state. The Republican feels that it has performed its share in expressing from time to time the danger to which the party would be exposed had Elkin been forced upon the ticket. The Republican has no candidate now and will cordially support any honorable and upright member of the party. This is a great opportunity for all factions of the Republican party to get together. The continuous snarling and snapping by and against one faction or another is distasteful and repugnant to the rank and file. The bosses, big and little, should now go to the rear and give the people the opportunity to make their own selection of candidates for this fall's election.

The little coterie of Quay leaders in this county, who, for the past year, have been sounding and singing the praises and virtues of John P. Elkin and who have been trying to set up delegates to the State Convention to support his candidacy, have now turned their respective back on him finding no words of blame or abuse quite strong enough to express their recently acquired anti-Elkin sentiment. To all Republicans throughout Centre county, we announce that the electioneering for Elkin is over. The Quay expectants have withdrawn all their praise and flattery of Elkin. They are even more abusive of him now than they were applauding of him before they got their orders. How foolish is all this. Never-the-less they still stand hat in hand and open-mouthed, waiting for new orders from Quay.

AS TO QUAY.

Quay has only added the history of another repetition of his cold blooded and heartless way of dismissing a friend when he had finished with him. It can be truthfully said that the entire pathway of Quay's leadership is strewn with the wrecks of bright, able, ambitious, young men whom he has used to their ruin and cast aside like an old garment. Elkin is his last victim and while the people of the State generally unite in the wisdom of Elkin's retirement as a gubernatorial possibility, yet the cruel and heartless way in which he was thrown upon the political junk pile excites pity. Elkin pinned not only his faith, but his ambition, his character and manhood to Quay. He followed his political god blindly, madly and, the result shows, to his political destruction.

Elkin was dismissed from the office of Deputy Attorney General by the last Republican State Administration because, with others, he signed an indemnity bond, the condition of which was, that Quay should control the appointments in a number of useless offices to be created; that the then Executive was to sign a bill making the appointments lawful and that, if he didn't, Elkin, with his co-obligors, would pay the salaries out of their own pockets, Elkin went to Washington and argued before the Senate Committee in favor of the legality of Stone's appointment of Quay as United States Senator, at the latter's request. As the official law officer at the present Administration, he has had his hand in, and been closely connected with, all that what has brought the Stone administration into such utter disrepute.

The Pittsburg Ripper Bill, the battledore and shuttlecock with which Stone tried to play politics in Elkin's interest in Allegheny county, has been another of the chief causes for lack of confidence in Elkin for the great office to which he aspires. It turned Allegheny against him. The railway franchises, the midnight conference at the Executive Mansion, the approval, sale and distribution of the swag; could not have been less hurtful to Elkin than to either Stone, Durham or Quay. Elkin as an intelligent man could not help but see the tide of public sentiment turn against him and the administration of which he was a part, but he blindly followed his boss. He staked all he had—reputation, character, fortune—on Quay's loyalty to him, but the stakes were put upon a false horse. When the boss had done with Elkin, he let him drop with a thud which has called attention again to the fact that Quay generally drops with a thud everybody who has become no longer useful to him. Elkin had worn out his good name and fame in the service of Quay and as a reward Quay dropped him with the coldest of thuds.

Quay has no further use for Stone, apparently, and another menial will go into obscurity as the price of his fidelity to the "Matchless Leader." He attempted to do the same with Senator Martin and nearly succeeded.

We wonder if the ghosts of A. Wilson Norris, William W. Hart, Col. Noyes, Blake Walters, General Bailey, George Handy Smith, Henry M. Hoyt and scores of others do not account for some of the political nightmares.

JOHN A. WOODWARD.

John A. Woodward, a farmer residing in Howard township, Centre county; a son-in-law of former governor Packer; a scholar; an authority in agriculture; a lecturer on every subject connected with the soil; a widely read, bookish man; has been mentioned here and there over the state as a gubernatorial possibility.

Previous to the Republican National Convention of 1888, a gentleman met Speaker Tom Reed and expressed the hope that he would be the Presidential nominee. Reed in his characteristic drawl, replied: "Well, they might go farther and fare worse—and I guess they will." The Democratic party might go farther and fare worse than if they would nominate Woodward and we expect they will.

MONEY BAG VERSUS PLOW HANDLE.

The friends of Attorney General Elkin are complaining that his opponents have warred against him because he is a poor man. They call attention, somewhat ostentatiously, to the fact that he is a poor man, so far as wordly possessions are concerned, while a combination of millions is against him. In illustration of the charge the following bunch of fortune's favorites is cited: Henry W. Oliver, with $10,000,000 to $12,000,000; George T. Oliver $2,000,000; T. S. Bigelow $2,000,000; Attorney-General Knox $3,000,000; Congressman Sibley $4,000,000, and former lieutenant governor Watres $2,000,000.

MAYBE

Alexander E. Patton, of Clearfield county, is going to get the Republican nomination for State Senator in the Thirty-fourth District without opposition, and Senator Heinle is pretty certain to be renominated by the Democrats. Then there will be an interesting contest, as the district is close.--Phila. Press.

It has been stated that Secretary Hamilton pledged to Elkin the delegates from Centre county to the Republican State Convention. This was done, however, previous to the Quay manifesto eliminating Elkin from the list of gubernatorial "its", Things are different now and "Oily Gammon" Hamilton's Centre county friends and neighbors are doubtless wondering on which side he will consider his political bread best "oleoed."

Mr. Elkin refuses to be ordered out, bargained out, dealt out or forced out of the canvass for the Republican nomination for Governor. He is out of the race just the same, never-the-less the independent course of this stalwart of stalwarts will be observed with much interest.

A candidate for clerk of Davidson county, Tennessee, promises to pay a church debt of $4,000 if he gets the nomination. The money is deposited as evidence of good faith, and the congregation is said to be working hard among the voters.

SECONDHAND SMOKES.

Selling Cigar Stubs Is a Lucrative Business In Naples.

Buying and selling cigar stubs is a large and lucrative business in the city of Naples, and many persons are engaged in it. Some of them have little stalls or shops near the docks, the arsenals and the manufacturing establishments where workingmen are in the habit of passing to and from their tasks. Others, with less capital, have little stands at street corners, a board laid across a saw horse, upon which their stock in trade is displayed, while the petty dealers in this line of business exhibit their stock in little piles upon the sidewalk, sometimes not even a newspaper being under them.

The supply comes from the cafes, restaurants, hotels and other public places. Men and women pick over the garbage heaps and the dust boxes, and boys run up and down the pavements in front of the hotels early every morning looking for "snipes." Some of the restaurant and cafe keepers sell the privilege of picking up the cigar stumps in their places to dealers, and the proceeds amount to a considerable sum during the year. In other places it is one of the perquisites of the head waiter.

Some of the stubs are taken to factories, where they are cut up and manufactured into cigarettes and smoking tobacco, but the greater part of them are sold to the lower classes of workingmen, sailors and dock wallopers, who smoke them in their pipes. At the entrance of the navy yard, which is upon one of the most frequented streets in Naples and in a very conspicuous place, half a dozen of these secondhand cigar dealers can be found when the men are coming out of the gates at the close of their day's work. The employees are not allowed to smoke inside, and their wages do not permit them to indulge in the luxury of cigars or even smoking tobacco at first hand, so, for a centissimo, which is the smallest coin imaginable—one-fifth of 1 cent—they buy a cigar stub,

Death of Mrs. Frank Weaver.

Mrs. Mary C. Weaver, wife of Frank B. Weaver, of State College, passed into the great beyond on Tuesday evening at the St. Luke's Hospital in Philadelphia. Death resulted from a critical operation performed two weeks ago for cancer. Although the deceased had been in failing health for the last two years, she was able to look after her duties at home. It was at the suggestion of her physician who deemed it advisable to have this operation performed which proved much more serious than at first thought.

Mrs. Weaver was a good, kind christian lady and had hosts of friends. She was 50 years of age. Her body was brought to Bellefonte Thursday and taken to the home of the Misses Weavers on Howard Street where the funeral services were held on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. Dr. Dennison pastor of the Presbyterian church at State College, of which she has been a member for the past twenty years

The floral tribute was grand, as the casket was litterly covered with flowers. Messrs. E. A. Whitworth, C. H. Waller, F. J. Saunders, and J. D. Kipple, four students from State College, rendered the music for this sad occasion, which was certainly very pretty. The selections they sang were "Abide With Me", "Rock of Ages," and by request "Nearer My God to Thee." The casket bearers were, Messrs. Geo. H. Kline, Clark Herman, Percival Rudy, C. H. Evy, A. F. Markle and W. B. Beck. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Wagner, of Milesburg; and four sisters and one brother namely, Miss Ella of Milesburg, Mrs. Jno. Keichline and Mrs. Peter Keichline of Bellefonte; Mrs. James Weaver and Mrs. Lou Wallace of Milesburg and Mr John Wagner of Unionville. Her husband and the following children are left to mourn her death: Frank of Allegheny, Lizzie, Jennie, Susan, Kate, John, Edward, George of State College, Mrs. Harry Harter of Axe Mann.

Lightning Rods.

The present state of science is such that no man can tell whether a lightning rod does more good than harm or more harm than good.

It is likely that if the rod is big enough and sufficiently well grounded, and the lightning flash is aimed directly at one's house, that some part of it or possibly all of it may go to the ground over the lightning rod. This is all that can be said. If a house has a tin roof it is reasonably safe anyhow. If it has a steel frame construction or is full of water pipes it is still safer. If it is a frame house with a shingle roof you can secure entire safety for it by building a copper house outside of it. This, we believe, is the only efficient lightning protection.

The whole matter of lightning rods was conceived in ignorance and has been exploited in folly. It is not now believed that the ordinary lightning rod does any good, or, on the contrary, that it does any particular harm. Insulators will not help it nor will they harm it.

If we were living in your house we would rather not have the lightning rod. —Electrical Review.

The April Born Child.

Prof. Coles tells us that a male child born in April will be inconsistent, and will never astonish his friends with any extraordinary wisdom; that he will be the father of many children should he marry but must work for a living. To balance things, he will be good looking and will be considered "a good catch" with the women who catches him. He will be easily influenced, and become the victim of many bad habits, unless toned down in early youth.

—Mrs. Ada Wyrick, wife of Jacob Wyrick, died at the home of her father, Joseph Pletcher, in Eagleville, Sunday evening after a lingering illness.

She was aged only 18 years and was a highly esteemed young woman with a host of friends. Her husband, father and one brother, Hayes Pletcher, survive. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, services being conducted in the Baptist church by Rev. G. S. West; interment in the Baptist graveyard.

Dickens Said She Was a Woman.

It is said of George Eliot's literary style that its most marked characteristic is sympathy. And long before her identity had become known Charles Dickens, a singularly acute critic of his own art, detected her sex by this undercurrent of womanly sympathy. He had been reading "Scenes of Clerical Life," which had been sent to him by the publisher, and on putting the book aside he said, "Well, this writer possesses great ability, but I should say, despite the name, that George Eliot is a woman."

The Bad Boy and the School.

This item is for the fifteen-year-old boy who thinks it is a smart thing to act up so mean at school that he wears out the life of his teacher and destroys the good work which the school was intended to accomplish.

This sort of heathen are found in country as well as town schools. They are too big for the little women to thrash and seem to have no moral sense which may be appealed to.

Now, boys, you are architects of your own fortunes. You can improve the educational advantages given you and become useful and worthy citizens or you can raise Cain, as you do at school, graduate from there into a break-beam tramp and die a dirty bum.

You can make your choice. The sure way to get into plenty of trouble when grown to manhood is to make lots of trouble in the public schools. You ought to have the meanness well licked out of you, but the teacher can't do it, your father won't and the school board had rather fire you than lick you.

Fun and plenty of it is a birthright of the American boy, but your type of meanness is not fun; it is the outcropping of the heathen in you, and you belong with the Moros or Tagals of Philippines rather than with the people of civilized North America.

Plot of the Bellefonters.

PART I

The Grandmothers of Bellefonte are having a picnic at Hecla Park, when the Granfathers come to visit them. They finally go to the banquet, when Senator Burns, who is late, gets lost from the party and, being very old and lame, sits down and goes to sleep. He dreams that a wizard and his witches come to see him, and agree to make all the old young again if Senator Burns will allow his daughter to become old in their stead. The little girl, who loves her father dearly, consents to do this; so all the old are transformed to youth again. The young Grandmothers and Grandfathers get into all kinds of trouble, but all rejoice that they are young again. The old folks return to Bellefonte and find Senator Burns asleep. They awaken him and he is greatly surprised to find that it was all a dream.

PART II

Of the Bellefonters represents a parade at the Pan-American over 200 persons will take part in this part of the production. All nations will be represented Sailors, Indians, British cavalry and Roman Soldiers are some of the features. The costumes are the finest that any traveling company uses in fine Opera's. Remarkable Matrimonial Record.

Though not quite 19 years old, Mrs. Paul Panon, of Hazelton, who died Saturday night, had been married three times. She possessed the largest matrimonial record for the short space of her life ever known in this section.

She was first married when nearly 16, but after some months her husband left her; later he died. She married a second husband within a year. He did not treat her well, she alleged, and she got a divorce. The third she married about a year ago. She would have been 19 years old on the 23d of April.

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the psalmist describes it issuing like "a bridegroom from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race." Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labor. The cause of this is deficient vitality and behind this lies a deficient supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy, as will Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing and quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs, and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which follows the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to stimulation as if contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. It does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition of sound health.

RISKS FIREMEN TAKE.

The Reason Engineer Brown Stuck to His Dangerous Post.

The risks that firemen in big cities take are an everlasting wonder, and the story of Bill Brown, as told by Cleveland Moffett in "Careers of Daring and Danger," shows that the engineer's bravery is sometimes put to tests as severe as those which the hose man or the ladder man even has to endure.

What happened was this: Engine 29, pumping her prettiest, stood at the corner so near the drughouse that the driver thought it wasn't safe for the horses and led them away. That left Brown alone, against the cheek of the fire, watching his boiler and keeping his steam gauge at seventy-five.

As the fire gained chunks of redhot sandstone began to smash down on the engine. Brown ran his pressure up to eighty and watched the door anxiously where the four firemen from his squad had gone into the furnace.

Then an explosion of chemicals in the building sent a flame wide as a house curling across the street, enwrapping engine and man and setting fire to the elevated railway station overhead. Bill Brown stood by his engine with a sheet of fire above him. He heard footsteps on the pavement and voices that grew fainter crying, "Run for your lives!" He was alone, and the skin on his hands, face and neck was blistered.

Brown knew why every one was running. There would be another explosion. It was tolerably certain that he must die if he stayed. But his four chums were in the fire and needed the water. If he quit his engine, the water would fail.

He stoked in coal and ran the gauge up another notch, easing the running parts with the oiler. He was offering his life for his friends.

In a few minutes the four firemen came out of the building. Then Bill Brown ran for his life with his comrades. A second or two later engine 29 was crushed by the falling walls.

PRETTY DISTRUSTFUL.

A Case Where Suspicion Might Be Carried Too Far.

"I told the postmaster of a town at the foot of the Cumberland mountains that I proposed a two weeks' trip among the sights and scenes of the big hills," said a Detroiter who roams all over the country, "and asked him if he couldn't give me a writing of some sort that would be a safe conduct in case I met with moonshiners.

"'Yes; I could write something, but I'm afeared it would do no good,' he replied. 'They might read the letter and know I wrote it, but they'd still be suspicious.'

"'Suspicious of what?'

"'Suspicious that you was a spy. They'd be so suspicious that they'd probably draw you up to a limb with a rope around your neck and let you hang for a minit.'

"'Then they'd let me down and believe I was all right, wouldn't they?'

"'I'm afeared not. I'm afeared they'd still be suspicious of you.'

"'Suspicious of what?'

"'Suspicious that you was a revenoo man. Then they'd draw you up again, and it might be two minits befo' they let you down this time. Two minits is a purty long time to be kickin' and chokin'.'

"'But they would finally let me down?' I asked.

"'Yes; I reckon so.'

"'And be convinced that I was no revenue man?'

"'Yes; they might, but that wouldn't end it. They'd still be suspicious.'

"'Of what?'

"'That you was a blamed fule fur bein' up thar at all, and this time they'd pull you up and leave you hangin' fur the best part of a week.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Butchers and Blue.

The blue smock of the butcher, says an English paper, has often aroused curiosity. The color was originally adopted by the guild of butchers in the middle ages at a time when each trade had its distinguishing color; but, while other guilds dropped their colors, butchers stuck to blue because blood stains are less noticeable upon that color than upon any other. At a very early period blue was the universal wear of serving men. It was then the cheapest of dyes. Sir Walter Scott in his well known poem "Marmion" talks of "an old, blue coated serving man."

What Grant Saw In Canada.

Lord Dufferin when viceroy of Canada paid a visit to Washington while General Grant was president. He casually asked the president whether he had ever been in Canada.

FILIPINO NAMES.

Many Have Their Origin Explained by Fanciful Legends.

Many Filipino names have had their origin explained by fanciful legends and traditions. Every name has a meaning.

Jaro is called by uneducated Visayans Salog, which means cup. The legend which purports to give the derivation of this name dates back to the time when the monkeys and parrots ruled the islands. Once there was a great drought, and there was no place where water was to be found in all the mountains. So scouts were sent out to look for water, and they traveled many miles until they came to a spot where the river flowed all the year and where food was always plenty. They took a cup of water to prove their find and went back to their companions, who journeyed to the water and called the place Salog, or cup. When the babes adopted by the monkeys after the slaughter at Iloilo grew up and possessed the land, they retained the name.

Lynced in Visayan means "sit down." The town of Lynced, thirty miles from Iloilo, is said to have received its name because the first settlers were climbing the mountain when they became tired and said, "Let us sit down." They sat down where the town now stands and found the place so agreeable that they remained and built the town.

Hard Luck For an Actress.

Perhaps one of the most trying contretemps that occurred on the American stage, writes Julia Marlowe, overtook a sister artist of mine when she was giving the first performance of a serious and elaborate play in an important American city. In the great emotional scene the sister of the character played by my friend falls at her feet in a passion of tears and entreaties. The heroine stoops to raise the stricken creature and in tones that unite pleading and command cries, "Get up.

Dismissing a Dead Man's Carriage.

At the conclusion of a funeral service it is a custom among the old noble families of Rome for the chamberlain of the household to come to the church door and announce to the footman, who stands in waiting, that his master or mistress or whoever the dead may be, has no further use for the family carriage, whereupon the footman informs the coachman, who breaks his whip over his knees and drives mournfully away.—Chicago Record-Herald.

TRAINING A RIDING HORSE.

The Master Made Good His Assertion as to What He Could Do.

"Yes," said the riding master, "I have to be a horse trainer as well as a riding master. In fact, I couldn't very well be the second without being the first. I always have horses in my school stables here that are sent to me to train for my pupils. One came this morning, and if you have the time to spare I will show you how I give the first lesson in obedience."

The master then ordered one of his men to bring the horse out into the "school," a great oblong space, covered with sawdust and inclosed and roofed. The horse was a fine, spirited animal, with an intelligent and kindly eye, and the master said at once that he would be a tractable and teachable subject, explaining that he had not yet had a chance to "make his acquaintance."

"Now," said he, "you must remember that this horse has never seen me before and that I am, therefore, a perfect stranger to him, and yet I think I can establish between him and myself so good a feeling that in five minutes' time he will follow me all about the school at a word of command—perhaps without a command. Let us see."

He then approached the horse, and the man stepped away. Speaking a few words gently, he patted the animal's neck and rubbed his hand over his head. Telling the man to give him a small riding whip, long and straight, with a keen lash, he placed himself with his right shoulder close to the horse's head, holding the bridle rein near the bit with his right hand and in his left hand the whip extended back horizontally so that the lash was opposite to the horse's flank.

"Now," said he, "for our lesson." And he began leading the horse around the school, keeping his shoulder close to the animal's head. Presently he took his hand off the bridle, and the horse at once began to move away from his shoulder, but a sharp turn of the master's wrist brought the lash of the whip against his flank just hard enough to make a little sting, and at the same time the master caught hold of the bridle and gently pulled the refractory head close to his shoulder again.

This was repeated half a dozen times, and then the horse evidently reasoned out the situation somewhat in this way:

"As long as I keep my head close to this man's shoulder it's all right, but the minute I take it away something back there jumps up and sticks me. Therefore I'll not take it away any more."

That must have been the way he reasoned, for within the five minutes' time allotted by the riding master the horse was following him all around the school like a big dog, nor did the master have to touch the bridle once.—Atlanta Constitution.

Not a Practical Philanthropist.

One day last winter when it was very cold a richly dressed woman stopped and gazed sternly at an ice wagon that was drawn up beside the curb on Walnut street, near Fifteenth. She stood there for ten minutes. Then the iceman came out of a certain house, and she said to him, "Driver, why don't you blanket your horses?"

"Because, lady, the kump'ny don't furnish me no blankets," said the man.

"Then," exclaimed the woman, "you should cover them with your coat."

"All right, ma'am," said the driver, smiling. "You gimme your coat for the near hoss, an I'll put mine on the off one."

The woman, whose coat was of sealskin, could not think of a good retort to this, and she walked away in silence.—Philadelphia Record.

Twain and the Printer.

Mary Twain once had a trying experience with a compositor, one of those conscientious compositors who not only know, but know that they know. According to a writer in Harper's Weekly, Mr. Clemens had received from his publishers the proofs of a story which he considered as funny as anything he had ever written, but on reading the proofs he dismally discovered that the fun had been carefully eliminated. Mr. Clemens returned the proofs, congratulating the compositor upon having consumed "only one week in making sense of a story which he himself required two weeks to make nonsense of!"

The Three Meal Habit.

Our three meal habit is a fearful tax on our working capacity. It trebles the temptation to overeating. Our champions stagger under the weight of a physiological handicap. One-half of the functional energy of the system is diverted by the exigencies of digestion. No other hygienic mistake has done so much to make us a generation of dyspeptics as the custom of after dinner work. Its victims, moreover, incur the risk of contracting that form of moral dyspepsia called pessimism. It tends to rob the working day of its reward.—Success.

A Chance to Dry.

Lord Dufferin always said that the happiest years of his long official life were those spent in Calcutta. He reveled in the sunshine. A friend one day expostulated with him for his reckless exposure of himself to the weather. "Well, you see," said the viceroy, "they have always sent me to cold places. They sent me as viceroy to Canada, where one must live two-thirds of the year in buffalo furs. They sent me to St. Petersburg, where one has to hibernate like a bear. So when they ordered me to India I rubbed my hands and said to myself, 'Now I can hang myself up to dry.'"

CHASING A GHOST.

The Way Whale Hunters Are Sometimes Fooled by "Spouting."

While the right whale is not so large nor so vicious as the sperm whale, the danger of hunting it is greater. In company with a fleet of ships, also bound for the arctic whaling grounds, says a writer in a contemporary, we sailed from San Francisco in February, and early in April we encountered the edge of the ice in Bering sea. The whales live far in the ice, and thither we went to find them. Occasionally a mother seal with one or two pups would dispute our way. She would not fly because of the little ones, holding her ground quietly, with fear in her eyes, while the pups barked vigorously at our presumption in disturbing them.

We had been "icing" for more than a week when we reached Cape Navarin, on the Siberian coast, a bleak, mountainous, dreary place. The next morning we saw another ship coming toward us, the dense black smoke from her try works showing she had recently caught a whale. In the afternoon we pushed on beyond the cape, and the lookout was cautioned to be extra vigilant. From his place in the crow's nest he scoured the sea with a long glass, and presently there came the welcome cry, "Blo-o-o-w off the lee bow!"

Every man strained his eyes. On the edge of the ice some two miles away was the familiar spout. The wind had died away until there was not a ripple on the sea. Boats were lowered, sails set and everything made ready. We drifted about helplessly. Every man knew that to place an oar or paddle in the water would "gally" the whale, for the big animals have a marvelously acute sense of hearing, and the minute there is an unusual sound they disappear.

One boat drifted in the direction of the spouting, which continued with clocklike regularity. Presently the sail of that boat was dropped, and the men rowed back to the ship. We had been "chasing a ghost." The spouting was caused by water spurting through a hole in the ice with each heavy swell.

COOKING HINTS.

Don't salt cucumbers or eggplant before cooking. It makes them indigestible and unpalatable.

Avoid peeling rhubarb when it is young and tender, for it only needs wiping with a damp cloth before using.

A piece of tough meat can be very nicely stewed in a double boiler. It will take twice as long, however, as if cooked directly over the fire.

Fish which contain few bones may be converted into fillets by dividing the flesh from the backbone in long, wide strips and then removing any smaller bones. Soles supply the best fillets.

Crusts and crumbs of bread left over from the table should be dried, put aside for rolling and dipping or to be used in scalloped dishes or mixed with a few sliced apples and baked and served as a dinner dessert.

To prevent sausages bursting when cooking put them into a saucepan, cover them with cold water and bring this to a boil, after which take them out and fry them in the usual way. This, it is said, will not only prevent the sausages from bursting, but will improve their flavor.

An Atchison Lynching.

Here is a story of a lynching in the early days of Atchison: A man named Sterling was hanged first. He was a vicious fellow and did not flinch. Indeed, while the rope was around his neck he announced that he was the best man in Kansas. Sandy Corbin, one of the lynching party, was somewhat of a fighter himself and did not like Sterling's talk. "Men," he said to the lynchers, "if you will postpone proceedings ten minutes I will take the conceit out of this scoundrel." The committee thought it would not be proper to let Sandy whip Sterling before hanging him, and the lynching went on, although Sandy grumbled loud and long because Sterling's bluff was not called.—Atchison Globe.

AN UNFAMILIAR TEXT.

But It Was a Forcible Illustration of a Great Truth.

Several years ago there labored in one of the western villages of Minnesota a preacher who was always in the habit of selecting his texts from the Old Testament and particularly some portion of the history of Noah. No matter what the occasion was, he would always find some parallel incident from the history of this great character that would readily serve as a text or illustration.

At one time he was called upon to unite the daughter of the village mayor and a prominent attorney in the holy bonds of matrimony. Two little boys, knowing his determination to give them a portion of the sacred history touching Noah's marriage, hit upon the novel idea of pasting together two leaves in the family Bible so as to connect, without any apparent break, the marriage of Noah and the description of the ark of the covenant.

When the noted guests were all assembled and the contracting parties with attendants in their respective stations, the preacher began the ceremonies by reading the following text: "And when Noah was one hundred and forty years old he took unto himself a wife," then, turning the page, he continued, "300 cubits in length, 50 cubits in width and 30 cubits in depth and within and without besmeared with pitch." The story seemed a little strong, but he could not doubt the Bible, and, after reading it once more and reflecting a moment, he turned to the startled assemblage with these remarks, "My beloved brethren, this is the first time in the history of my life that my attention has been called to this important passage of the Scriptures, but it seems to me that it is one of the most forcible illustrations of that grand eternal truth that the nature of woman is exceedingly difficult to comprehend.—Starlight Messenger.

Men and Women In Sleeping Cars.

"It would surprise you to know that a heavy per cent of the persons who travel on sleeping cars make no effort to disrobe before they retire," said a conductor who runs between New Orleans and Chicago. "They simply roll in with boots, spurs and all. They do not seem to know that a berth on a sleeping car is just the same as a bed in a private home except in size. Some of them will pull off their coats and collars. Some of them will slip their shoes from their feet. There are many, of course, who are used to traveling and who go in for a good night's sleep.

"With women it is different. You can never catch a woman so indifferent to comfort and cleanliness in this respect. She will pull her shoes off every time."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Her View of It.

"With the aid of this little book," said the canvasser as he produced a "Mother's Guide" for the inspection of his victim, "you will be able to bring up your children properly."

She took the book and weighed it thoughtfully in her hand. Then she caught it by the edge and brought it down on the palm of her hand as if to see if it could be handled with ease and dexterity.

"Oh, I don't know," she said at last. "I can't see that it's any better for that purpose than a slipper."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Careless Parents.

"Why don't you make a name for yourself?" asked the serious person.

"I only wish I had had the chance," said the pale young man, "but my parents thought they knew it all, and they made up one of their own, and that's why I am compelled to struggle against fate under the handicap of Reginald Claude de Vere Smithers."—Washington Star.

A LASTING EFFECT:

Relief from the pains and aches of a bad back is always welcome to every backache sufferer in Bellefonte, but to cure a lame weak or aching back is what is wanted. Cure it so it will stay cured. It can be done. Here's the strongest evidence to prove it.

Mr. James Rine, West High street, employed in the planing mill says: "I can speak as highly now of Doan's Kidney Pills as I did years ago and my case is pretty good evidence that the cures made by them are not temporary. I have not had any of the severe pains in my back since I used Doan's Kidney Pills while before I could not put on my shoes and could hardly drag myself around. Though I have had slight touches of backache. It never amounted to much. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to hundreds of people and I know of those who have had the greatest relief from suffering by using them I can say they are reliable and permanent in their effects.

Gardiner and Froude.

Speaking of the late Dr. Samuel Rowson Gardiner, a student of Toynbee Hall says: "His patience and his tolerance were inexhaustible, his temper of the mildest. He had, however, a pleasant vein of satire. For instance, he would say of Froude, whose brilliancy he greatly admired, but whose unsoundness he characterized as deplorable: 'Whenever I find myself particularly perplexed on any point I look to see what Froude has to say about it. I always find his help invaluable, for I can trust implicitly his unfailing instinct for arriving at false conclusions, and the more positive he becomes the safer I feel in adopting a diametrically opposite view.' ODDITIES IN MAILBOXES.

"People put queer things in letter boxes," said a mail carrier the other day. "They seem to have an idea that they are doing brilliant things when they drop any old thing into a mailbox to annoy the collectors. I have found a little of everything in my boxes, including money. Yes, money; but, you see, there are some of these newspaper men on my route who know me, and sometimes they have a batch of letters to mail and no stamps on hand. They drop the letters in and along with them the necessary amount of money to pay postage. Of course they know I will do the rest. This is the only way I have ever found money in a mailbox.

"I have been hunting two years or more for the duck who put about three feet of sausage in one of the boxes one night. I was bumping along on my last round about 11 o'clock and opened the box. When I ran my hand in, I grabbed the string of 'dog,' and I was about the worst frightened fellow in the District, for I was sure I had hold of a snake, and I didn't know whether I had head or tail hold either. I turned it loose, and, striking a match, I soon saw that I had had a joke played on me. Before that night I was a great lover of sausage, but I have not been able to tackle any since."—Washington Post.

John Ruskin and Newman Hall.

While his church was building Mr. Newman Hall had an amusing bout with Mr. John Ruskin. He went and asked the seer's advice as to how to erect a church which should not only be commodious, but beautiful; not only sheltering from rain and sun, but inspiring happy thoughts and holy emotions.

He replied—as he had already written—"that we should not build up stones, but gather together a few people who would not steal or tell ties."

"I said," writes the pastor, "that we had many hundreds of such and needed a building where under shelter they might worship and be taught. He repeated his opinion, and I said I had made a mistake in troubling him, as I thought I was speaking to the author of 'Stones of Venice.'" Whereupon Mr. Ruskin made the singular reply:

"No, you are not. Every one who does something in teaching men passes through three stages of life. At first he teaches what is inaccurate, then he unlearns it, and lastly he teaches the truth—which stage I have now reached."

That was in 1872.—London Chronicle.

Wanted a Nerve Soother.

"You don't think of suicide?"

"Far from it."

"What do you take it for?"

"Must I tell you, sir?"

"You must, or otherwise I can't supply you."

"Well, then, don't you think that a woman forty years old who has had her first offer of marriage less than an hour ago naturally wants something to quiet her nerves and give her a good night's sleep?"

The druggist thought so, and she went away contented with the nerve soother.—Spare Moments.

The Apple Belt.

According to the last census the production of apples in the United States amounted to 143,105,689 bushels. In order of production Ohio stood first among the states, producing 13,789,278 bushels. Pennsylvania tenth with 7,552,710 bushels. Pennsylvania, although ranking tenth in the list, nevertheless contains some of the best apple producing land in the United States. The basin of the Ohio river appears to be the great apple region, and that part of Pennsylvania which falls within its limits is equal to any other apple growing region of the country in point of productiveness. The ten counties in Pennsylvania leading in the production of apples are Allegheny, Butler, Washington, Westmoreland, Armstrong, Bucks, Beaver, Mercer, Bedford and Greene. All these counties, with the exception of Bucks and Bedford, are included in the great apple belt.

A FAMOUS HIGHWAY.

The Cumberland Road, Which Was Projected by Henry Clay.

The most remarkable highway built in the United States early in the nineteenth century was the so called Cumberland road, which was to extend from Cumberland, Md., through southwestern Pennsylvania, over the Alleghany mountains to the Ohio at Wheeling, W. Va., and then on to St. Louis. It was so well constructed that it is a good road today. Henry Clay was its projector and chief supporter, and his services in its behalf are commemorated by a monument near Wheeling. We are told by letters written at that period that "there were sometimes twenty gayly painted four horse coaches each way daily. The cattle and sheep were never out of sight, and canvas covered wagons were drawn by six to twelve horses."

On this great road, which eventually passed into the hands of the states through which it runs, the government expended no less a sum than $7,000,000. Within a mile of it on either side the country was a wilderness, but on the highway itself the traffic was as dense as in the main street of a large town. Ten miles an hour was the usual speed for coaches. From Baltimore to Wheeling ran lines of freight wagons, which carried ten tons, drawn by twelve horses and with wheels ten feet in diameter.—Pearson's Magazine.

Curious Migrations.

In Norway and Sweden a curious migration takes place, the irregular migration of the lemming. There is no telling where this strange animal will begin its march southward through Norway and Sweden in search of food. The interval between one migration and the next is seldom less than seven years or, as in one instance, more than seventeen years.

The lemming is a species of rodent and resembles in some ways our common water rat. Once started, these strange creatures press on in a straight line. There is no checking their march. If a wall or a house is in their way, they will try to climb it rather than go around it, and if they come to a stack of corn they will eat it and then go forward. The lemmings are good swimmers, and so they do not mind rivers and ponds, although they cannot keep afloat in rough water.

The migration comes to a fatal finish. Taking a direct course toward the southwest and southeast, the animals arrive after awhile at the seashore. Still they must press on, and the lemming migration ends for another seven years.

Japanese Cats and Dogs.

Japanese cats have the shortest kinds of tails or else none at all. One of these cats, on being taken to a European town, refused companionship with the long tailed cats there; but, finding a cat whose tail had been cut off by accident, the two became friendly at once.

Japanese dogs are almost destitute of noses, having the nostrils set directly in the head. The smaller the nose the more valuable the breed.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

An Every Day History—High Strung—Nervous—Excitable—Constant Headaches—No Rest At Night—Heart Weak—Appetite Poor—Loss Of Weight—Strength All Gone.

Read the following:

Miss Barbara Brock of Coldwell, Pa., 12 miles out of Lock Haven, Pa., says:—"I have been extemely nervous for a long time—any unusual noise would upset me. I simply had no appetite at all and felt weak and easly tired. My head ached a great deal and at night I was troubled so much with sleeplessness. I got some of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and they did me a wonderful lot of good—my appetite returned—the headaches left me and I felt well and strong in every way after using the pills."

The Woman's Choice.

Will She Choose Dr. Experiment or Dr. Experience?

Put the question plainly to any woman: Will you choose the experienced or the experimenting doctor? and there's no doubt about the answer. What woman wants to be the subject of experiments, to drag out weary months while the unskilled practitioner vainly tries various medicines, and charges the sick woman liberally for his experimental failures?

Yet willing or unwilling a great many women have to go through just such an ordeal. Their disease baffles the local physician. He tries all he knows to effect a cure and fails. Sometimes this

Perhaps the difference between the "doctoring" of experiment and experience cannot be better shown than in the following statement:

"For seven years I was confined to bed most of the time," writes Mrs. M. P. Davis, of Honaker, Russell Co., Va. "I had four doctors and they said I could not be cured. I had ulceration of uterus and female weakness, so I could not stand on my feet but a short time; had bearing-down sensation, pain in the small of my back. My stomach and bowels, also legs and feet would swell, and everything I ate hurt me. I could not sleep well, was so short of breath I could not lie down at night; had soreness and tenderness over uterus, toubled with palpitation of heart, and suffered with headache all the time. I would get blind and have fainting spells, had dark rings around my eyes and my eyes seemed bloodshot; suffered from painful periods; could not lie on my left side. I would have numb spells, pains around my heart every morning, my lungs hurt me a great deal and my shoulders too. I would spit up blood at times, memory was poor, hearing was bad, hands and feet were cold all the time, and I had chills and night-sweats. After the doctors said I could not be cured I got hold of one of Dr. Pierce's Memorandum Books and read how he had cured so many patients afflicted like I was so I thought his medicine might help me. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice and he sent me a very encouraging letter in reply, advising me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I got two bottles and used these and felt much better. I sent and got six bottles more. I can now work all day and not feel tired at night. I can sleep all night and can eat anything I want at any time. I can walk and go anywhere I please. I feel better than I ever did. Can do all kinds of work in the house and out doors too. I am sorry I did not take Dr. Pierce's medicine when I first began to have poor health. I could have saved what I paid to humbugs. My friends say that I do not look like the same woman. When I commenced your medicine I only weighed one hundred pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and forty. I thank you a thousand times for your good medicine and your kind advice. I used four bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' four of 'Favorite Prescription' and two vials of your 'Pleasant Pellets.'" between experiment and experience in treating womanly diseases? The difference between success and failure. The difference between health and sickness, happiness and misery. The reason that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures so many women is that it is a medicine which is the product of years of experience in the treatment and cure of womanly diseases. It is a medicine made to do certain things and it does what it is made to do. Every woman understands the fine points of this difference between experiment and experience. When the housewife engages a cook she demands experience. She does not want a cook who is experimenting with unfamiliar recipes. The inexperienced man might say—Why, there's the cook book. It tells how to make anything. All you've got to do is to measure and mix as it instructs and you can't come out wrong. Can't you? The wife knows very much better than that. Given the best recipe in the world it takes experience to make a success of it. The difference between the success of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the failure of other medicines is the difference of experience. It is no experiment to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of womanly ills. Experience—the experience of hundreds of thousands of women proclaims that it makes weak women strong and sick women well.

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE

Thousands of grateful letters have been written to Dr. Pierce. They cover cures of every form of womanly disease which is medically curable. They show that "Favorite Prescription" is a perfect regulator, that it dries enfeebling drains; that it heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. They prove "Favorite Prescription" is the best preparative for maternity; that it keeps the mother strong and healthy and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is privately read, privately answered and womanly confidences are guarded by the same strict professional privacy which protects the womanly confidences made in a personal consultation with Dr. Pierce. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

As chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce (assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians), has in a little more than thirty years, treated and cured hundreds of thousands of weak and sick women.

CAN YOU AFFORD

From Franklin to DuBois.

A corps of railroad engineers are working their way along an old survey made many years ago which is supposed to connect Franklin and DuBois, or some other point in that vicinity. The survey runs from Franklin to Shippensville, then down Deer Creek to the river and up Piney and Brush runs and thence on east. This work is said to be backed up by the Vanderbilt interests and the road is generally regarded as sure to be constructed in the near future, eight miles of the road from Franklin being reported under contract.

QUAY DROPS ELKIN!

Senior Senator Has Made the Announcement.

NEWS CAME AS A SHOCK

To Friends of the Candidate and Excited Political Circles—Durham Also Deserts Him.

RESULT OF A LONG CONFERENCE

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—After months of silence, United States Senator Quay announced yesterday that he is opposed to the nomination of Attorney General John P. Elkin for governor of Pennsylvania. This announcement came as a great shock to the friends of Mr. Elkin and caused a tremendous stir in political circles. Insurance Commissioner Durham, the leader of the republican organization in this city, who some time ago publicly announced that he was for Elkin "sink or swim," has been won over and in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press last night said he concurs in the taken of the situation by Senator Quay, and in a statement issued last night said that Mr. Elkin's nomination would "threaten the republican success upon the state congressional and legislative tickets."

Senator Quay arrived here from Washington Thursday and has held numerous conferences with Durham and other political friends during the last forty-eight hours at his headquarters in the Hotel Stratford. Senator Quay's attitude was positively known to his friends Thursday, and early last evening at a long conference with the senator General Elkin learned from the senator's own lips his attitude in the matter. What actually took place at the conference, neither the senator nor the attorney general would say, but later each gave a formal statement to the Associated Press. Senator Quay's statement follows:

"I am a friend of General Elkin, and if I were permitted to name the governor of Pennsylvania, I would name Mr. Elkin. But I regard his candidacy under present conditions as threatening to republican success upon the state, congressional and legislative tickets and if I am a delegate to the republican state convention, I cannot support him, I have no candidate for the position of governor or any other position. The selection of candidates is for the convention, which I believe will be an intelligent, impartial and deliberative body."

When Insurance Commissioner Durham was shown the statement at the Stratford, he said:

"I concur with Senator Quay."

The attorney general in his statement said:

"I refuse to be ordered out, bargained out, dealt out or forced out of the canvass for governor. I am a candidate to the finish and will continue an aggressive canvass until the republican convention shall make its nomination. A majority of the republican voters should determine who the nominee shall be. From the outset I have appealed to the people for support and will continue this policy to the end. From assurances received from all over the state today I have every reason to believed that my friends will be successful in the convention. The American people believe in fair play and I rest my case with them."

Mr. Elkin is the leading candidate for the nomination and had nearly the solid support of the republican state organization. For months Mr. Elkin and Mr. Durham have been trying to get Senator Quay to announce himself for the attorney general, but up today he steadfastly refused to say anything publicly. Although there is no officials confirmation for the statement, it is firmly believed in political circles that Senator Quay has taken this step in the interest of Senator Penrose, who is a candidate for re-election to the United States senate at the next session of the legislature in January. Commissioner Durham is also very friendly to Senator Penrose and would do nothing that would jeopardize his re-election. It is believed that this friendship for Senator Penrose had all to do with Commissioner Durham in withdrawing his support from his friend Elkin.

Superintendent Preston.

Cecil A. Preston, superintendent of the Erie and Canandaigua division, was appointed superintendent of the Eastern division of the Philadelphia & Erie and of the Susquehanna division of the Northern Central railway, to succeed E. B Westfall, deceased.

Mr. Preston is a thorough, practical railroad man and has been in the service of the Pennsylvania company for a number of years and has always been considered a man of ability and sound judgment. He is well known over the different divisions which he will superintend, having served as principal assistant engineer at Williamsport for a number of years.

Henry P. Lincoln, principal assistant engineer of the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley division under G. W. Creighton, will succeed Mr. Preston as superintendent of the Elmira & Canandaigua division. The change of officials took place on April 1st and what other changes, if any, will follow have not as yet been made public.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorenci, Ind. "I tried all remedies available, but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar, its effect was almost miraculous and I am now cured of the disease. On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar, and always with satisfaction." C. M. Parrish.

Five Week's Baby Speaks.

A dispatch from Harper, Kan., says that an alarm amounting among the more superstitions to almost a panic has spread here because of what are believed to be the prophetic inspired words of a five-weeks old infant. The child wa talking at the age of three weeks. Its first attempt was made on February 20. Its words were clean and incisive, and at irregular intervals during wakefulness ever since. They are:

"Six years of famine in Kansas,"

The sentence is taken by many to be a message from the Deity, to be disregarded by hearers at their peril. Already a number of farmers are leaving the state, firm in the belief that a long drought is approaching. The child shows unusual signs of intelligence, is well informed and of normal growth, but parrots the words like a phonograph. It can say nothing else. The father, John Shelby, is a laboring man. Hundreds have traveled here, and waited for hours to secure confirmation of the story from the baby's lips.

For Over Sixty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cure wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

Burglar's at Beech Creek.

The store of Enoch H. Hastings, near the N. Y. C. station at Beech Creek, was entered by burglars prying open the front door Thursday night of last week and a considerable amount of merchandise was taken.

The thieves took cigars, tobacco, canned goods, pocket knives, hunting knives, two revolvers and other articles. A glass case filled with fine fishing tackle was carried down the railroad a quarter of a mile, broken and much of the contents taken. The loss is estimated at about $30.

A gang of five men, well dressed, who were loitering about town Thursday, are believed to have done the robbing. They are blamed with the robbery of Kane's store in Eagleville on Tuesday night previous.

Want To Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." WAYS OF THE GYPSY.

Methods of Communication Used by the Romany Tribes.

The ancient road signs of the Romany, the "patteran," takes the place of signboards or maps. The "patteran" is a little, carefully arranged pile of sticks, grass or stones placed at crossroads, where none but a gypsy would notice it any more than any one but a Romany could read it, but to him it is as plain as the noonday sun, and by it—a succession of such wayside tokens—one family or company can follow others who may be days ahead of them for hundreds of miles.

Though the gypsy has uses for other methods of communication besides the mysterious "patteran," he is not a letter writer. He rightly cares first for his own immediate family circle. The closest "in-laws" do not travel together unless perfectly congenial or unless it is convenient for them to do so, and as the roving life is not conducive to letter writing even the nearest relatives do not usually hear from each other directly more than once or twice a year at most.

In the city livery stables and pawnbrokers' shops opportunities are afforded for the exchange of news, but for those who roam in small groups and rarely strike a large city or the great bureaus of information, summer camping grounds, where all the gossip of the year is retailed, communication of personal family news is uncertain.—Leslie's Monthly.

Physical Courage In Battle.

"Physical courage in battle," said an old veteran, "is simply this: Your sense of duty or your sense of shame is so strong that you can't run away. All this talk about men liking the roar of battle is nine-tenths rubbish. Nobody likes to be killed or wounded, and nothing is more natural than for a man to get out of the way of a bullet if he can do so without too serious a loss of his own self respect or of that of his neighbors.

"I never knew but one man who seemed as if he really relished fighting, and that was General Reynolds, who precipitated the battle of Gettysburg and lost his life in so doing. It was just like him to bring on an engagement. Reynolds was always keyed up very high in action. He would shout and encourage his men and plunge recklessly forward in a high state of exaltation, as if he were engrossed with some very exciting game which he enjoyed playing. Other generals I have observed were cool, collected and impassive in action, but somehow none of them impressed me as having the same stomach for fighting as Reynolds."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Curiosities In Bookbinding.

Extravagance in binding has frequently furnished an opening for the display of fantastic tricks and fads. In an old bookseller's catalogue was seen an advertisement of a Latin copy of Apulein's "Golden Ass," bound in the skin of a Jerusalem ass, the leather being still unhaired. A book by Jeffery Hudson, the noted dwarf, was bound in the silk waistcoat of Charles I., the dwarf's patron saint.

A de luxe edition of Fox's historical works, specially fitted up for Edwards, the philosopher, was bound throughout in foxskin, forty-seven pelts of these little animals being required to complete the job. O'Connell, who so delighted in the possession of a first edition of Bacon's works, had the entire set rebound again in pigskin and always lovingly referred to them as his "Baconrind" books.

The Dog's Right Place In the Home.

A dog has its place in the home, but that place is not to terrify our friends and visitors when they try to approach our house or to make them uncomfortable after they enter it. We are unfair to a dog when we allow it to make a nuisance of itself to those who have no special interest in its welfare. The best place for a dog is generally where there are no people other than the family. There is something wrong about a dog or the license it is allowed in a home when it arouses in a guest or friend those feelings which our instincts permit us to suffer, but not express.—Edward Bok in Ladies' Home Journal.

A certain undertaker, who doesn't live a thousand miles from here, has heard of men giving one another the slip, but he never knew that a corpse could give an undertaker the slip until he was made the victim.

A few days ago he was called on by a gentleman and was told to get a casket ready and send it to a neighboring town for a man who had died. The undertaker did as requested. When he arrived at the house he was met by an astonished inmate with the inquiry:

"You're in somewhat of a hurry, aren't you? Why, the party you're after isn't dead, but was taken to the hospital a few hours ago."

The dumfounded undertaker made his apology as best he could under the embarrassing circumstances and returned to his place of business with the empty casket.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Dyspepsia Cure

People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time. "I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and am alright to-day. Can now eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."

It can't help but do you good

—The Post Office at Pine Grove Mills was broken into by burglars Tuesday evening. They had their trouble for nothing however as Postmaster John Hess had fortunately taken all the stamps and money home with him when he closed the office for the night. About two dozen letters were however torn open and lay scattered about the floor.

—As a method of prolonging life and strengthening the human frame against sickness whistling is said to be beyond compare. Development of chest and neck muscles is one of the special advantages claimed for the exercise. Long, deep breathing is an essential for a good whistler, as it is not permissible to draw in the breath except during the intervals of the sound production.

—It is said Greensburg church people are forming an organization and will demand that the postoffice there shall be kept closed all day on Sunday. It is now kept open for one hour on that day. Besides the postoffice, slot machines, soda fountains, cigar stands etc., are to be made go back and sit down over Sunday. But it is left for a postal clerk to unkindly remark that if the most pious church people of Greensburg would stay away from the postoffice on Sunday it would not now be necessary to keep it open.

A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG LIFE ENDED.

Mildred E. Wagner Passes Into the Great Beyond.

On Saturday evening as the clock was striking the hour of nine the life of Millie Wagner took its flight into the realms of glory. She has been failing in health from consumption for the past year and had taken her bed, but some thought she was a little better on Saturday evening, as she seemed strong enough to take her own medicine, and was in the act of taking another portion when she quietly fell asleep never to awaken again in this world.

Millie Wagner was a young lady who was held in the very highest esteem by everybody in Bellefonte. She was an exemplary Christian young lady and had a model character. When she was well it was always a pleasure for her to be doing some good church work and trying to make others happy. She was a member of St. John's Reformed church and an active member of the Ladies' Aid society of the church.

Miss Wagner was an extremely bright young lady. She graduated from the Bellefonte High School June 3d, 1897, with high honors and for years assisted her grandfather, the late John Wagner, to transact many of his financial deals and is said to have had a keener knowledge of the valuation of bonds, stocks, property and business dealings than most of the men in town. She has nearly always made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Wagner, on South Spring street.

Miss Wagner has hosts of friends who will mourn her death, but those who will feel this great bereavement most are her grandmother, brother and sister, namely: Mrs. Howard Brubaker, of Woodstock, Ill., and Mr. John Wagner, of Altoona, Pa.

Mildred Estella Wagner was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, Jr. She was born in Osage, Mitchell county, Iowa, August 24, 1877, making her age at the time of death 24 years, 7 months and 18 days.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock Rev. Ambrose Schmidt officiating. Interment in the Union cemetery.

The casket bearers were all cousins of the deceased and were as follows: Messrs Ira Hess, Curt Wagner, Harry Wagner, John Hess, Earnest Hess and Newton Hess.

Whiskey Ends the Life of Two Woodsmen.

The coroner of Lycoming county went to Raisch's lumber camp, twelve miles from Slate Run Monday, where he held an inquest over the bodies of the two woodsmen, Michael Cartney and Harvey Tomb, which were found in the woods. The men had been missing from the camp since Saturday a week ago. The last heard of them was when they left a resort on the Coudersport pike, having a jug and a bottle filled with whiskey. Not arriving at the camp, a force of men instituted a search and found the bodies of the men about a quarter of a mile apart It is believed that the men drank nearly all the whiskey, lost themselves in the woods, and died of exposure. The coroner is making an investigation. The bodies of the men were shipped to Slate Run for interment.

Death of L. Scott Bricker.

L. Scott Bricker, of Boalsburg, died at his home in that place Sunday evening after a prolonged illness. He was 42 years old and was well and popularly known throughout the county.

He acceptably filled for several terms the office of postmaster at Boalsburg and for a number of years conducted a general store at that place. Mr. Bricker was a gentleman of genial disposition and attractive manners and he leaves a host of friends and acquaintances who will deeply regret his untimely death. He is survived by a widow and two sons, John and Howard, his aged mother, one brother and one sister.

The funeral took place from the Boalsburg Lutheran church on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and interment was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

Death of Mrs. Reuben Glenn.

Mary, wife of Reuben Glenn, of State College, died Sunday evening at 7:30 at her home at that place. Death was due to injuries sustained by a fall on the ice several months ago. The deceased was aged about 31 years.

She was a sincere christian, a faithful wife and mother and leaves to mourn her untimely death, a father, mother, husband and three small children.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. C. T. Aikens of the Lutheran church of which deceased was a member officiating.

A Sunday Blaze.

Sunday afternoon about one o'clock fire was discovered in the boiler room at Lingle's foundry and machine shops. The alarm was turned in and the fire companies responded promptly. They worked hard and soon had the fire out, with slight damage. The roof of the boiler house was burned off, but it will not interfere with work at the shops which is going on as usual Monday morning. The loss is covered by insurance in the agency of Grant Hoover.

ROYAL

Absolutely Pure

BAKING-POWDER

No inferior or impure ingredients are used in Royal for the purpose of cheapening its cost; only the most highly refined and healthful.

Royal Baking Powder imparts that peculiar sweetness, flavor and delicacy noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, rolls, etc., which expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

Alum is used in making cheap baking powders. If you want to know the effect of alum upon the tender linings of the stomach, touch a piece to your tongue. You can raise biscuit with alum baking powder, but at what cost to health!

"THE FEAST OF DAYS."

Opened Tuesday Evening in Petrikin Hall.

An entertainment and fair at once unique and interesting opened Tuesday evening in the auditorium at Petrikin Hall. It is under the supervision of the young ladies of our town and the proceeds are for a worthy cause, the Petrikin Hall fund. The handsome sum of $125 was realized on their opening night.

This evening a minstrel show will be presented by home talent. George R. Meek, James Harris and other local celebrities will participate.

The hall presented a very entrancing appearance Tuesday evening. The gaily decorated booths with their pretty attendants, and the brilliantly lighted room, made a scene well worth going to see even if you did not care to purchase any of the many bargains to be had there.

The Coleville band gave an open-air concert in front of the building at 8 o'clock which was highly appreciated.

"The Feast of Days" is represented by six booths, each representing a day in the week. Monday being wash day, the articles for sale at this booth were for laundry purposes. It was presided over by Miss Emma Montgomery, assisted by Misses Millie Smith and Henrietta Butts.

Tuesday is ironing day and at this booth a variety of pretty odds and ends useful on this day are for sale. It is presided over by Miss Mary Linn, whose assistants are Miss Ursula Bayard, Miss Mary Hamilton, Mrs. Harry Fenlon, Miss Louise Armor and Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis.

Various articles used in a sewing room can be found at Wednesday's booth. Miss Sadie Malin is in charge here with the following assistants: Mrs. Clevan Dinges, Mrs. Harry Yeager and Miss Margaret Potter.

Thursday's booth is built in the form of a diamond. A great quantity of fancy articles and dainty novelties are for sale here. Miss Mary Blanchard ably presides here assisted by Mrs. Katherine Burnett, Mrs. Mollie Valentine, Miss Merriman, Miss Jane Furst and Miss May Crider.

Friday is sweeping day and so brooms, dusting caps, whisk-holders, etc., are to be had at this booth. Miss Blanche Hays is in charge, assisted, by Mrs. George VanTries, Mrs. J. P. Gephart and Miss Alice Dorworth.

At Saturday's booth all the delicacies of the season are for sale, cakes, buns, pies, etc. Mrs. J. L. Kurtz is at the head of this booth and is assisted by Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson and Mrs. J. E. Ward.

Besides these there are three other booths, as follows:

Candy—Misses Mary Hoy, Eleanor Harris and Mary Thomas.

Lemonade—Misses Sara and Daisy Potter.

Ironing Stand—Misses Margaret and Catherine Burnett.
